- (i) Any number of the Union may ask in writing any elected office bearer any question in connection with his official duties provided two days' notice is given for this and the answer shall be read out by the office bearer concerned at the next meeting of the Union and shall be open to discussion. Such question shall pass through the President whose decision regarding the question shall be final. The members of the Union shall also be entitled to put supplementary questions, provided that not more than fifteen minutes shall be allowed for such supplementary questions.

(j) A vote of censure for neglect of duties or infringement of Rules may be passed against any office bearer, except the President and the Treasurer or against an elected member of the Executive Committee or against the Executive Committee as a whole in a meeting of the Union specially called for the purpose. The requisition for such a meeting shall be signed by at least one-third of the total number of members of the Union, and at least ten days must expire, for the meeting to take place, from the date on which notice for such a meeting is communicated to the President. No such meeting shall be held unless at least 50% of the total number of members of the Union are present. A motion of censure shall not be taken as carried unless it is passed by a majority of two-thirds of the members present and voting in the meeting. In the event of such a censure motion being passed the relevant seat or seats shall be deemed to have fallen vacant, and the vacancy or vacancies shall be filled up in accordance with the Rules contained in the First Schedule.

PART-X

RULES OF DISCUSSION IN A PRIVATE BUSINESS MEETING

32. (a) Every motion must be seconded, otherwise it will drop.

(b) Subject to Rule 32(c), 32(j), no member shall speak more than once on a motion except the proposer who shall have a right of reply before the motion is put to vote.

(c) A motion standing in the name of a member, who is absent from the meeting may be proposed by any other member with the consent of the Chairman.

(d) The Chairman shall have the same right as any other member of proposing or seconding a motion or an amendment and of addressing the meeting.

(e) The Chairman shall have the right to vote and in case of the number being equal, shall have a casting vote.

(f) A member wishing to speak in a discussion shall rise in his place at the close of a speech. If more than one member wish to speak, the Chairman shall determine who is to be heard first.

(g) In case any speaker in course of a speech makes any objectionable remark, the Chairman shall call him to order and his order shall be obeyed at once without any discussion.

(h) The Chairman of the meeting shall have the right to name and remove any member from the meeting.

(i) If a point of order be raised by a member in the course of a speech by another, the speaker shall stop until the Chairman has decided it. The Chairman shall be the sole judge of any point of order and may call the member, who is speaking, to order. If the member so called to order, disregards such order, the Chairman may direct him to sit down. If the member so directed disobeys such order, the Chairman may declare the member offending and suspended as a member of the meeting. Such member shall immediately withdraw from the premises of the Union.

(j) Amendments to motion may be moved. Every member shall have the right to speak on the amendment motion even if he has spoken previously on the original motion. After all who wish to speak on the amendment have spoken the proposer of the original motion shall have the right of reply before the amendment is put to vote. The Chairman shall then read out the motion and the amendment and the question shall be put, "shall the motion be amended?" If the majority be opposed to it, it shall drop, and the discussion shall proceed on the original motion. If the amendment be passed, the amended motion will be the motion open for discussion; and no one who has spoken before on the motion on the amendment shall have the right to speak again except the proposer of the original motion who shall have the right of reply before the motion is finally put to vote.

(k) On putting a motion or amendment to vote the Chairman shall first call for the expression of the opinion of the meeting by a show of hands and shall declare the result thereof. Any member dissatisfied with such declaration may then and there demand a division by rising in his place. The Chairman shall call for a division in the manner laid down in Rule 34(c).

PART - XI

RULES OF DISCUSSION IN A DEBATE MEETING

33. Rules 32(a), 32(c), 32(e), 32(g), 32(h), 32(j), 32(k) shall apply to meetings held for debate.

34. (a) A member wishing to move an amendment to a motion in a debate shall first hand it over in writing to the Chairman and obtain his consent. The Chairman shall have the power to reject any amendment that is unnecessary or vexatious.

(b) When a discussion is prolonged the Chairman may limit the length of speeches, having regard to the feeling of the House. He may also close the discussion and call on the mover to reply, or adjourn it to a further meeting.

(c) At the close of the debate, the Chairman shall read the terms of the motions and shall act as laid down in Rule 32(k) and in case of a member demanding a division he shall nominate two members as tellers for the "Ayes" and two for the "Noes". The tellers of either side shall take up their station fixed by the Chairman and all members who wish to vote shall rise from their seats and walk between the two tellers appointed for the side on which they wish to vote. When all members have voted they shall return to their seats. The tellers shall then, advance to the secretary and inform him as to the members voting. A paper, signed by the tellers, containing the number of votes on each side shall be handed over to the Chairman who shall read out the result and declare the adjournment of the House.

35. If the Chairman wishes to speak on a motion for debate he shall leave the Chair and appoint, for the time being, a member of the Executive Committee or of the Union to act as Chairman. Having spoken he shall resume his position as Chairman.

PART -XII

AMENDMENT OF THE CONSTITUTION

36. The Syndicate at its own initiative or on the recommendation of a Hall Union President may add to or amend the constitution in such manner and as such time as it thinks fit and this will come into effect from the date fixed by the Syndicate.
